

Workshop 1 feedback

This brief survey is intended to gather feedback on the successes (or otherwise) of the workshop

Successful Biogeography Publishing as Authors, Reviewers, and Editors - Part I:

Navigating publishing as a new(ish) author

1. The goals of the workshop were:
 1. Share hopes for, and experiences with barriers to, publishing as ECRs (Early Career Researchers), and discuss ways we can overcome the barriers.
 2. To better understand the structure of scientific publishing, including changes in recent decades, journal mechanics, and possible alternatives.
 3. Be positioned to have greater success in publishing in your first choice journal.
 4. Make some new friends to hang out with over the coming days!

How well do you feel the workshop accomplished these goals? (N.B., the first two goals are each split into two parts below.)

Mark only one oval.

- ☐ Share hopes for, and experiences with barriers to, publishing as ECRs
- ☐ To discuss ways we can improve the publishing ecosystem for ECRs.
- ☐ To better understand the structure of scientific publishing, including changes in recent decades
- ☐ To better understand journal mechanics and possible alternative models
- ☐ Be positioned to have greater success in publishing in your first choice journal.
- ☐ Make some new friends to hang out with over the coming days!

2. State one aspect of the workshop that worked well? Why do you feel this way?

3. State one aspect of the workshop that you think could be improved? How would you improve it?

4. Did the workshop change your level of interest in reviewing (for society-owned journals)?

Mark only one oval per row.
